In the first book of lessons from the St. Thomas Aquinas for Everyone series, Dave Palmer provides 30 quick, fun and easy lessons for people of all ages who desire to learn how to find God in their everyday experiences using the timeless teachings of the Angelic Doctor, St. Thomas Aquinas. These thirty lessons are based on the first half of the first part of St. Thomas' masterpiece, the Summa Theologica. Through fun activities, outdoor adventures, quotes from the Summa and 'Awe and Wonder' sections, the reader learns to practice a 'spirituality of awareness' in his or her everyday life, which means becoming aware of the countless ways God makes Himself present in our daily activities. These lessons train the reader to make life an exciting and meaningful journey back to He who is constantly calling us to Himself.

"Let's rejoice that we worship a God that is so awesome" (p. 41).

By Anthony Bosnick

It is a gift to be able to be able to simplify and popularize. Dave Palmer has that gift. While doing this with the "Summa Theologica," the theological tome of St. Thomas Aquinas, Palmer has been able to hone in on the heart of Thomas's message. This is not easy to do, considering the complexity of most of the Articles in the "Summa" on the nature of God.

This short book helps bring the teaching of Thomas down to a level where non-theologians can begin to understand it (and probably some trained theologians too!). He achieves this in 30 "quick and fun lessons" through:

1. his interesting and readable introductions,
2. a short selection from the "Summa,"
3. a "Fun Activity for Children,"
4. an "Outside Adventure,"
5. a statement of "Wonder and Awe," and
6. a Prayer.

All this is typically accomplished in 3 or 4 pages.

This book looks good for (Catholic school) teachers, religious educators, and for parents--for anyone who wants a deeper understanding of their faith. Young adults too--and those not so young--may find it useful to see what they likely have missed along the way. The sections on "Outside Adventure" and "Awe and Wonder" help the readers have a more personal and experiential knowledge of God and their faith. grapple with the truths of the faith, and hopefully come to a deeper understanding of God. I have studied Thomas in a formal theological setting, but I was amazed at how much I learned (or re-learned) through this book.

I highly recommend it . . . especially if you are teaching children, raising children, trying to deepen your own faith and understanding . . .

30 Quick and Fun Lessons, Activities and Outdoor Adventures Based on the ...

By Nancy H C Ward

Let's Go Find God is the enticing teaser of Volume I. The full title of the series tells it all: St. Thomas Aquinas for Everyone, 30 Quick and Fun Lessons, Activities and Outdoor Adventures Based on the Summa Theologica.

The arrangement, approach and intended audience make St. Thomas Aquinas for Everyone a dynamic tool to teach children the spirituality of awareness. Dave organized each of the 30 interactive lessons into six sections, including a Fun Activity and an Outdoor Adventure.

My favorite section is "Awe and Wonder", which is a reflection on the "St. Thomas Says" section, and how it applies to my life.

Let's Go Find God is the first of eight volumes that will eventually cover the entire Summa--the life's work of the author whose day job has him directing a Catholic radio station.

He heard so much talk about St. Thomas in theology and liturgy discussions, Dave just knew he had to read the Summa Theologica. Eight years ago he started reading it, finished in 9 months, and immediately started over.

What struck him about the Summa was that it's not complicated, as most people experience. "There was a simplicity that struck me very pointedly and unexpectedly," he said.

"It changed the way I see the world!" Dave said. "Everything was different from before I read the Summa to after I read it. It gave me a blueprint for directing my life to God, to the way I live my life."

To summarize the Summa, Dave evoked John 17:3, "Now this is eternal life, that they should know you, the only true God, and the one whom you sent, Jesus Christ." Dave explained, "It's about knowing God! Ever since I read the Summa, I've had a burning desire to get to know God. Of course, God exceeds our ability to understand him. Is it impossible to know him? Well, no, because he's left clues of himself everywhere we look."

The Summa teaches that God is perfection. He is everywhere. In every moment he is around us, in everything. Dave thought, "Okay, I can go find God. Every single day of my life can be an exciting adventure. I can explore and find God in everything."

The Summa helps us come to know God as much as possible now so we can prepare to live with him forever in heaven. That's why Dave contends that St. Thomas remains relevant. And why the Church continues to encourage us in restoring Christian philosophy to counteract a myriad of atheist philosophies seeping into our culture.

"We don't have to wait until our children are 18, and we send them off to college to their first philosophy class. We can teach them while their minds are absorbing everything."

Dave thinks 5-year-olds can be taught basics of Thomistic philosophy, such as recognizing beauty and connecting it with God. For example, parents, grandparents and educators can instill simple principles about cause and effect. Discovering a leaf means a tree is nearby. Seeing the sun comes up means we have warmth and light. Using the Outdoor Activity guide, children see cause and effect in nature, reminders of God, our Creator.

Soon they engage in a deeper conversation with God. They are finding God through their senses, transcending the world. Awareness brings awe and wonder – and gratitude!

What are we waiting for? Let's go find God!

What a wonderful book to help you talk to your kids about God, the Catholic faith, love and family. Dave Palmer does such an incredible job at translating Aquinas' teachings in an easily-understood way. Way to go Dave. HIGHLY RECOMMENDED BOOK!
